Redmen Face Gaels In Gridiron Finale At Queens Stadium

Hayes, Heron, McGill Backs, To Miss Tilt

By BOB BORNSTEIN

The road to success is a long, hard one and is often paved with many disappointments. By now, the McGill Redmen must realize this fact, for they have yet to taste the fruits of victory in Senior Intercollegiate Football this year. However, their untiring efforts may be rewarded in Kingston on Saturday, when they face the Golden Gaels of Queen's University in their last tilt of the year.

It has been a trying season for Vic Obeck and his valiant Redmen. Winning that final game against Queen's would go a long way in soothing the feelings of both coach and player. From all accounts the Redmen have the stuff to perform this little stunt. They have been constantly improving since that opening day tie with the Gaels and seem primed for the coveted win.

QUEEN'S IMPROVED

The Queen's squad, under the guidance of Bob Elliot, has also found the going pretty rough. After tying the Red and White in their opener, they went on to absorb four consecutive defeats at the hands of "Western" and "Toronto." They too have felt the might of the "Murderous Mustangs," who slaughter tered them by scores of 52-3 and 32-0. The Gaels showed flashes of brilliance in their first meeting with Varsity, as they held them to an 8-5 lead at the end of three quarters. However, the Torontonians went on to win handily in the fourth, 23-6. Last week a vastly improved Queen's crew battled Varsity to the limit, as the Blues, calling on all their power, won 15-5.

LENARD ET AL

Any team with players like Al Lenard, Dave Rozumniak, Murray Bulger, Ross McKelvey and Roy Fardell will take a lot of beating. So the Redmen will have no easy time of it when they take the field at Kingston Saturday. You will recall that Lenard and Rozumniak did most of the damage when these same two teams met in the season's inaugural at Molson Stadium. That day a great play by Lenard in the last seconds enabled the Queenmen to hold the Redmen to a 13-13 tie while Rozumniak was the leading ground-gainer on the field.

Debating Conference Aim Set As Finding Top McGill Talent

Dawson Vets Call Meeting For Wed.

A general meeting of the Dawson College Student Veterans' Society will be held in Theatre 1 at 7:00 p.m. on Wednesday, November 19. Vice-president Bob Muskatov will present reports from the National Council of Student Veterans' Societies and from the Montreal District Student Veterans' Society. The meeting will then decide whether the elections of executives will proceed as previously, (i.e.) by nominations from the floor and immediate elections, or whether the nominations will be written and the elections carried out by ballot. In either case, the positions of President, Vice-president, Secretary-Treasurer, and of Publicity Director must be filled by veterans on the Dawson College Campus.

UNTD Seeking New Material

Recruiting for the U.N.T.D. is coming on apace at H.M.C.S. Donnacoma, with a number of applicants on hand every Wednesday night to join up. However the training program is now in full swing and recruiting can only be carried on for a limited time in the future it has been announced by U.N.T.D. Commanding Officer, Lieut. Cdr. (S) D. C. Bain R.C. N. (R).

All those who are considering joining the Division are asked to come down to "Donnacoma" as soon as possible on a Wednesday night, between the hours of seven thirty and ten o'clock.

The training offered by the U.N.T.D. consists of four years of progressive training ashore and at sea. From elementary seamanship and practical naval discipline in the first year and other courses designed to familiarize the trainee thoroughly with naval routine, the courses in the more advanced years range from radar to navigation with fairly detailed instruction being given.

Dawson 'Key' To Reorganize

An attempt to reorganize the Dawson Key Society in the pattern of the McGill Scarlet Key Society, is being made under the direction of George Mueller, Social Chairman. Nominations carrying ten signatures are requested, and the closing date for nominations is Friday, November 21. Elections will be held on Tuesday, November 25. Nominations should be brought to the students council office.

"The aim of Debating Conference to be held next Friday and Saturday in the McGill Union and Arts building is to uncover debaters for our home-and-away intercollegiate debates against such universities as Harvard, Princeton, Yale, Vermont, and Toronto," according to a memorandum issued by the committee in charge.

"For the past several years McGill has been sending top-flight debaters to other colleges, but unfortunately has not trained enough younger members. The result is we are holding this Conference primarily for those who are inexperienced."

"The American debating system of each speaker having a five minute rebuttal in addition to a ten minute address has been adopted so that we will be on equal footing with colleges from across the border. The topic under discussion this week-end will be "Resolved that Canada Socialize Medicine." Each team will debate four times over the two-day period. The first will be Friday night; followed by more more Saturday afternoon; with the windup Saturday evening.

BANQUET SATURDAY

A banquet for the entrants will be held Saturday before the closing contests. Very brief talks will be given by several of the guests. The entrance fee of fifty cents will help defray the cost of the affair with the remainder being taken up by the debating society.

"An imposing array of critics-judges has been obtained and it is through their comments that the debaters gain the most benefits. No effort has been spared by those in charge to bring competent officials to the Conference."

Entries are being accepted on either an individual or a faculty team basis from Commerce, Science, Arts, Engineering, R.V.C., and other faculty wishing to enter. As time is needed to make a satisfactory draw, those who intend to take part are urged to register immediately with George in the Union Bill Tettey, Margaret Schwartz, or Jack Shayne.

An organizational meeting will be held at 5 p.m. in the Union, at which time any problem arising will be solved and any questions answered. Full information will also be given at all the inter-faculty debates.

CANADIAN CAMPUS — a CUP feature

With University sessions now in full swing throughout the Dominion, trends for 1947-48 indicate only small changes in registration as compared with last year, conditions being, however, still far from pre-war normalcy.

"Veteran registration in the junior years is slackening off, with most veterans now in their senior and graduating years."

With a steady increase in the availability of building materials and labor, there has been a pronounced emphasis on expansion and improvement.

A general review of sample colleges across the Dominion follows: EDMONTON, ALTA.

Table Tennis To Come Back On Trial Basis

A petition has been received by the Union House Committee, requesting the re-instatement of pong-pong tables in the Union. As their previous location is now used as a meeting room, it is suggested that the tables be erected in the Ballroom.

The House Committee's statement follows: The Union House Committee has received a petition signed by a number of students, concerning the former ping-pong tables in the Union. It reads as follows:

"We, the undersigned request, since the former ping-pong room is now occupied by chairs the week long, and by committees, clubs, etc. a few odd minutes per week, that the ping-pong equipment be erected in some other location, possibly the Ballroom."

We would like to point out that this space, which formerly was occupied by two ping-pong tables, is now being used by a greater number of students, and more often than when the ping-pong tables were set up.

Tables In Ball Room However, the Union House Committee has decided that because there are a number of students who would like to play ping-pong in the Union, the tables will be set up in the Ballroom for a trial period of one month. If the tables are to remain standing, there must be co-operation from the students. Playing equipment will be available from Josh in the "Hard Room." This equipment must be signed for and returned to Josh, after the same (s). Thus, it will not be necessary for Josh to run up and down the stairs after the equipment.

Students are also asked to try and keep the Ballroom as neat and devoid of rubbish and dirt as much as possible. Your co-operation will be appreciated.

Architects to Show Two Films Today

Previewing an architectural exhibition on "Prairie Farm Rehabilitation," a screening of two films will be held in the School of Architecture, this afternoon. "Soils for Tomorrow" and "The Heritage We Guard" were selected to illustrate phases of the extensive rehabilitation program undertaken in the Prairie provinces since 1935.

Arrangements have been completed to hold the screening in the newly-acquired School of Architecture, 3484 University Street. The film will show a documentary presentation of Canadian achievement comparable to the American Tennessee Valley Authority development.

New Prexy Tops Sangster; Quorum Figure Is Set At 200

Wyndham A. (Wyndy) Strover, a student veteran who retired from the Canadian Army last year after service since 1939, yesterday was elected third president of the McGill Student Veterans' Society, in a campus-wide election that saw a vote of close to 900 polled. Mr. Strover's success was a double one, for his entire slate was voted into power on a platform to gain increased grants and extend housing facilities.

Defeated in the polling was John T. Sangster, Mr. Strover's single opponent for the presidency, and the slate of candidates who supported him. He polled 324 votes to the new president's 527, and the voting for the other five positions indicated a roughly similar margin of difference, with the exception of the treasurer's post, where Bernard Rubenstein won a narrow decision over Lillian Olson Lane, 446-413.

GRANT INCREASES

The apparent feeling of vets on the McGill campus as to the necessity for cost-of-living increases on their living allowances were emphasized by both slates in their platforms, and both groups called for improvements in the vets' housing situation. Both slates also stressed the necessity of non-political action toward these ends, and Mr. Strover's program added a clause designed to facilitate the obtaining of student loans.

In a statement issued last night following the announcement of his victory, Mr. Strover stressed the fact that the campus election, first to be held by the Vets Society, had served to increase both interest and membership. "I am glad to find that the adoption of the general ballot system for this election has more than tripled the Student Veterans Society's Membership," he said. "I thank all who voted for the interest they have shown, which cannot help but assure that constructive, solid support so necessary to our program."

Hand-Over Meet

Mr. Strover also announced that a hand-over meeting would be called at an early date, and that a "Vets Do" will be arranged soon.

Yesterday's ballot also decided to amend the constitution so that in future a quorum will consist of 200 members, instead of the previous 30 per cent of the society.

Voting results follow: President: W. A. Strover, 527; J. T. Sangster, 324.

Vice-president: Peter Nohl, 541; Dick J. Hunter, 315.

Secretary: Susan Ketchum, 550; Alex Lane, 308.

Treasurer: Bernard Rubenstein, 446; Lillian Olson Lane, 413.

Publicity Director: Alan Finlay, 545; Grant Roberts, 312.

Housing Director: David Ledoux, 597; Dick Mascolo, 249.

KISS TO SPEAK

Guest speaker at "Student House," 3445 Peel street, on Saturday and Sunday evenings will be Dr. F. Kiss, director of the Department of Anatomy, University of Budapest, Hungary. Dr. Kiss was in Hungary throughout the Nazi occupation and was active in the Hungarian underground, shielding many anti-Nazis.

ACS Formal Tonight At 10 In Gymnasium

The third annual Arts-Commerce-Science Formal will take place tonight in the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium on Pine Street. Art Hallman and his Orchestra, currently appearing at the Casa Loma in Toronto will travel to Montreal to play at the dance. Terry Dale will be featured as vocalist.

He is also a Victor recording artist as a vocalist, and he and his whole orchestra are regular performers over the CBC network, playing from dance spots all over the country.

Three 'Med' Films To Show Tonight

Taxes medical films will be shown tonight in the Biological Building under the auspices of the McGill Medical Undergraduate Society for medical and pre-medical students. The showing, which will commence at 8:15 is the first of a series of bi-weekly programs which will extend throughout the year.

Titles of the films shown are "The Physiology of Anoxia," "Technique in Trauma-Surgery," and "Surgery in Chest Disease." The nature of the films is planned to be suitable for all four years of Medicine.

Radio Workshop Hold Auditions Tomorrow

The McGill Radio Workshop will hold auditions for all members and everyone interested in radio acting tomorrow afternoon. The cast for the proposed shows that are being produced by local radio personalities will be chosen from those attending Saturday's auditions.

All students interested will meet in the lobby of the Union at 2 p.m. Saturday, and after registering will proceed as a group to a local radio studio for the radio tests. It has been announced that experience is not required for these shows.

'Smoke Makes Prosperity' Theme Features Film Society's Opener

By ANNE LYONS

"Smoke makes prosperity no matter if we choke on it" according to the script of "The City," featured movie of the McGill Film Society's initial program which was inaugurated yesterday at 6 p.m., Room 250 in the Biological Building.

"The City," as a film, comprises a blend of excellent photography, shocking realism and a graphic plea for proper urban planning and housing. To the philosophical farmers of 1791, the town constituted an integral part of their lives. They deemed it essential to keep the open land always in sight. This became sharply contrasted with the sordid conditions of poverty and disease prevalent in modern cities.

At this point, also, the presentation became extremely dramatic. The aspects of ideal urban life, combining both the assets of the open country and steam age, was depicted finally as the result of premeditated housing and town organization.

Notable among the short series of musical renditions substituted for jazz routines of Cab Calloway and others, was Spike Jones' arrangement of "Pass the Biscuits, Miranda."

"Holiday At School," in technical, dealing with the Banff School of Fine Arts was shown as the third film.

The McGill Film Society is responsible for one afternoon and one evening program a week. In the future it plans to sponsor films on the British West Indies in co-operation with the British West Indian Society and skiing shorts in conjunction with the M.O.C.

Community Centres' Importance To Be Pointed Up by CCF's

Montreal has always been an interesting and conglomerate city, due to the large number of different races and tongues that have settled here. The life of each community can best be seen through the focus of the district community centre, always a beehive of local activity.

Believing that many McGill students wish to learn more of the complex culture surrounding them, the McGill C.C.F. Club has organized a tour to six of the leading community centres in Montreal, as well as their neighbourhood.

The tour will start Saturday afternoon at one o'clock, when Mr. Beck of the Montreal Boys' Association will address the group in clation will address the group in the New Room of the McGill Union. Immediately following, the students will leave for the afternoon tour, which will be climaxed by a personal interview with Sergeant Pelletier of the city morality squad.

The findings of the afternoon will be discussed Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock at a fireside gathering in the S.C.M. House, 3574 University street. Informal reports will be followed by discussion and refreshments.

Any interested students who are unable to attend the tour itself, are nonetheless invited to hear the group's discoveries on Sunday.

ART: LET'S HAVE SOME

Two years ago, in November, 1945, an exhibition of the paintings of Goodridge Roberts was opened to McGill students and to the public in Royal Victoria College. It was sponsored by the Women's Union, and arranged by the Art Committee of the Women's Union.

The exhibition was so well received, and Mr. Roberts' paintings were so generally appreciated that the Women's Union bought two of the watercolours, one called "Lake and Mountains", and the other entitled "Corner of the Shed." These first two purchases were to form the cornerstone of a collection of Canadian paintings which the Women's Union planned to build up year by year. However, it now appears that the art committee is defunct, and we regret to report tion of a university, since, by materially helping artists, it would give a general impetus to the whole of art. Lastly, such a collection has cultural value and broadens appreciation which has been generally undeveloped until now.

It is interesting to note what other Canadian universities have accomplished in this respect. A Montreal art dealer who speaks with authority has said that one of the best Canadian collections in the country hangs today in Hart House at the University of Toronto. Its 75 canvases were acquired one by one, as proposed two years ago at McGill, and now include most of the well-known names in Canadian art.

A student committee selects the paintings, many of which are purchased in Montreal. The that "Lakes and Mountains," and "Corner of The Shed" are hanging in lonely isolation on the Common Room walls.

This year, in order to fill a lack which has long been apparent here, McGill installed two Fine Arts courses in the Faculty of Arts and Science. These are well attended. In addition, a Fine Arts Society has recently been established by students on the campus, and has just received its sanction from the Students' Executive Council. So we may perhaps be justified in assuming that McGill students appreciate and are interested in art.

Stimulation of interest in art has been neglected in the past. Considering the present activity in the field of art, it is a great pity that a collection has not materialized. A Canadian gallery of paintings, if judiciously acquired, would become a valuable one over a period of years, and a credit to the university. Secondly, a collection would fulfill an important function of a university, since, by materially helping artists, it would give a general impetus to the whole of art. Lastly, such a collection has cultural value and broadens appreciation which has been generally undeveloped until now.

Perhaps for the purpose of building a similar collection, the Women's Union could ally itself with the Men's Union, and together they might acquire a number of fine paintings. Perhaps gifts for such a collection would be forthcoming; the graduating class might decide to give the university a painting instead of a tree—Montreal is, after all, already a city of trees. College spirit has frequently demonstrated itself on this campus. Football, campus elections and cheerleaderettes issues seem to indicate that college spirit is in ascendancy. The acquisition of a gallery of good paintings over a period of years by the student body might bring a more worthwhile and lasting element into "college spirit."—D.V.

Exhibition of Abstracts
at Architecture
School

There is an exhibition of pictures in the School of Architecture, 3444 University Street, which should be seen by all who are interested in the development of painting in Montreal.

The painter is Lucien Morin, a French Canadian who has studied at the Ecole des Beaux Arts and who has since departed considerably from the academic ways. His paintings are experimental and fairly deeply influenced by Picasso, Braque and Leger. What modern painter is not? The pictures are not representational although their forms have probably been suggested by some actual ideas or objects. Colour, lines and the play of shapes are the things which have interested the painter and which he wishes others to see.

The pictures will undoubtedly arouse all the hysteria and indignation that occurs with an exhibition of unusual paintings, generally due to the surprise of finding non-representational pictures in a frame. Some people seem not to be able to overcome the feeling that the picture must be of something and either try to see something which is not there or disavow that they do see as hopelessly badly drawn. Strangely enough compositions of masses of color, lines and patterns have concerned men for a far longer time than painting pictures in frames. Gardeners, builders, designers of cloth and furnishings from the most ancient times, to mention a few, have experimented with the possibilities of composition of forms and colors available in the materials they handle all quite unrepresentationally although not the less meaningfully. Why should the modern painter be denied the opportunity of composing on canvas forms which interest him? These pictures are not of anything but themselves.

Mr. Morin is a thoughtful and sensitive painter whose style is developing rapidly. The exhibition briefly depicts the present period in his development as well as a part of the whole movement of Montreal painting.

Assuming the function of the artist is to concert opinion, to inform, to point out the design and quality of things or places or people, this man appears to be investigating imaginative, possibly accidental patterns and exploring techniques of expressing them. In his work there is no deep comment upon our social arrangements or an effort to show the pathos etc. of this situation or that.

Mr. Morin has both talent and the courage to carry out his ideas. To appreciate him requires some sympathy and knowledge of his terms and intentions because his ways are unfamiliar. One feels an effort to understand his work would be rewarding because the man is obviously very sensitive; and one hopes that in his development, his means of expression and his interests will become less intellectual without becoming vulgar or losing the freshness and fearlessness abundantly displayed in this exhibition. Music This Week

By J. KOHOS

Two recitals of varying interest were heard Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Two young pianists, George Haddad and Shura Cherkassky, presented programmes which were very much alike in some ways and very different in others.

Mr. Haddad opened his recital with the playing three Scarlatti Sonatas. They were given a cool, clear, brilliant performance — indeed the accent throughout the concert seemed to be on excessive speed and brilliance. Unfortunately as the impression made by all this sheer virtuosity palled — one found that it hid much that could be improved.

With this amazing technique Mr. Haddad should go far—however, it must be understood that finger dexterity is but a means to an end. The Schubert and Chopin Sonatas on the programme were given clean, fast performances. This reporter has never heard the fast movements played faster. However, this essentially romantic music needs much more than a correct fast performance to really put it across to the listener successfully.

Debussy and Ravel, Estampes—particularly the Jardins sous la Pluie—and Alborada del Gracioso were heard to good advantage... but the music seemed bathed in lifeless moonlight instead of warm life-giving sunshine. With more interpretative study, the quality of Mr. Haddad's performances should equal his fluency.

Mr. Cherkassky is a pianist of quite another sort. His technique is such that never before have I heard its equal—even Horowitz... However never at any time was the listener unnecessarily made aware of it.

A Suite for Piano by Jean Baptiste Lully opened the programme. Such control, intensity and fine playing has seldom been heard before. Mr. Cherkassky's pianissimo shadings were so clear, so delicate, they gripped the audience so completely that someone in the orchestra might have heard a pin drop on the second balcony. The audience was so held that none dared cough during the entire suite. This indeed must have been a new experience for a Montreal audience. It was seventeenth century music played in the seventeenth century manner on a twentieth century piano—which was made to sound like a seventeenth century instrument. Had Mr. Cherkassky played no more that evening, none in the audience could have gone home dissatisfied.

Mr. Cherkassky continued with an individual interpretation of the Beethoven Sonata Op. 101 with which Beethoven could surely have had no quarrel. The performance was fraught with nervous tension throughout. It was playing in what may safely be called the Beethoven manner. Here the pianist seemed to bend backwards in his attempt to avoid a virtuoso performance and some may have found his tempi a trifle too deliberate.

The two Chopin works which followed might easily have come as an anti-climax. However, both works, particularly the Fantasia, received a very masculine and intellectual performance. It was Chopin played as the composer

Szpinalski Displays Brilliant Technique

On Wednesday evening, Stanislaw Szpinalski gave his first performance in Montreal, at the Plateau Auditorium. He displayed a brilliant technique and a perfection of pedalling such as is rarely found today. This was never more noticeable than in the Pastorale and Capriccio by Scarlatti. The Pastorale was played more sympathetically and less briskly than is usual, but the effect was pleasant; the Capriccio that followed was nicely capricious.

Mr. Szpinalski's interpretative ability was probably most apparent in the last part of the program which was devoted to the works of Chopin. The Nocturne in C sharp minor was given a slow, effective opening and was followed by a spirited second theme. Excellent as this performance was, it was surpassed by the next... the Ballad in A Flat Major. The mood of the poet was completely captured; it was superb Chopin. The two Mazurkas were well done, especially the one in C Sharp Minor that had as true a rhythm as one could hope to find. The Waltz in A Flat Major was started at an extraordinarily fast rate but delicacy was never sacrificed for speed.

The new Polish music that was performed, a Sonata by Kassern, a Berceuse by Ekier and a Sonatina by Szeligowski, was very enjoyable, containing some beautifully simple melodies and some sparkling passages. It was well played by Mr. Szpinalski and was well received by the audience. The performance of Debussy's Puerta del Vina and General Lavigne was too erratic to be called good Debussy but, nevertheless, proved interesting.

Most disappointing on the program was the "Appassionata Sonata" by Beethoven. The first and last movements were played dramatically while the second movement was done coolly. There was too much Szpinalski and not enough Beethoven. His interpretation was not without musical value, but it did not measure up to the other performances of the evening. G. J. E.

The Liszt Don Juan Fantaisie which concluded the programme is undoubtedly one of the most difficult works in the piano repertoire. That Mr. Cherkassky was able to put this superficial music across so successfully is a tribute to his immense technique and amazing musicianship.

'Stone Flower' Truly Creative Art

—a review

"Stone Flower", a prize winning Russian movie now playing at His Majesty's Theatre, is advertised as a "revolution in colour"—this is a modest understatement. For here is a film so unique in form and content, that it defies comparison to anything we have ever seen on a screen.

This movie is a truly creative art-form; it is an intricate blending of all the arts—music, drama, colour-photography and story. All these phases of art have their own respective roles in the film, it is true, but as is the case in a masterpiece, none predominates to the detriment of others. In essence, the film is the closest approach to a tri-dimensional form that we have yet encountered. Both background music and colour give depth to an otherwise two-dimensional screen.

A paragraph may well be devoted to an appraisal of the colour process used in the film. When placed side by side with the typical Hollywood technicolor production, the latter may well take stock of itself. For the colour process used in "Stone Flower" is amazing; it must be seen to be believed. The richness and depth of colour in some of the scenes were more than faintly reminiscent of the work of Rembrandt or da Vinci.

And the story of "Stone Flower" is the essence of simplicity. It is, briefly, a fairy tale—but it is a fairy tale of depth and idealism, charm and sincerity. The most cynical and hard-bitten audience, in spite of itself, will be drawn into the story by virtue of its technical and aesthetic power.

The main thread of the story is woven about a young stone-carver and his sweetheart; the conflict between material success and true love—the latter winning out at the conclusion. It is in his search for material success that the stone-carver meets the "Lady of Copper Mountain", who offers him what he is seeking; but at the same time, unknown to the world at large, is putting him through a test—that of choosing between accessible material wealth and the true love he bears for his sweetheart.

There is abundant use of symbolism and fantasy in the movie—the "Lady of Copper Mountain" being the outstanding example—but even these less credible factors become curiously believable in the film.

A word about the acting: generally, there is no unfavourable criticism. The few moments of weakness in acting on the part of the stone-carver are overcome by the sheer overall ability of the cast at large.

If we have nothing more to say concerning "Stone Flower", it is not through the lack of material; rather it is our inability to express the sheer beauty and simplicity which has been produced by master craftsmen.

We have deliberately omitted listing the cast; the names are unknown to us, and, we believe, to most students. But the film's thing, it is playing up to and including Sunday, Nov. 16. By all means, see it.—T.E.B. and A.T.

Dawson Ring Hockey Loop Boast Dramatic Play

By RONNIE MELZACK
If you haven't seen a game of floor hockey at Dawson you haven't seen anything.
During this past week some outstanding games have been played with the score standing as follows: Odds and Sods 1, Skunk Hollowers 8, Mountain Boys 1, Square Roots 4; Boxers 1, Beardless Wonders 4; Cynners 2, Boobie Boys 2; Nutcrackers 0, Demons 7. Goalie Charleux and Capt. Gord Simpson of the Beardless Wonders, Phendler of the Boobie Boys and Wixon of the Demons all performed outstandingly.
NAMES
The names of the teams no doubt sound exciting, but to fully appreciate names like the Demons, the game must be personally witnessed. It is only a miracle that no one head has been smashed in, for body-checking has been mastered to a T.
DRAMATIC
What could be more exciting than to see a strong player grab up the puck and break away across the floor. He has a single defenceman to pass before he can score. Slight-

Wrestling Class Held Tri-weekly in Gym

Wrestling practices and instruction are once again underway in the B.W. & F. room of the Currie Gymnasium. The sessions are held every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon, and will become a tri-weekly affair beginning tomorrow afternoon.
Wrestling coach Allan Turnbull is on hand each time to give advice, instruction, and information. Three assistant coaches are also present at these times; in the persons of Henry Hudson, British and Empire Games wrestler, and Dominion Champion; Doug Martin and Sherry Raymond.

DAWSON
Special arrangements have been made for Dawson College students. Manager Gilles Gagnon will meet students at St. Johns interested in learning to wrestle tomorrow at the Currie Gym.
Teams have not yet been chosen for the coming meets at Dartmouth and Williams, and for home encounters with Springfield, and Champlain Colleges. The field is still wide open, so all desirous of groaning for McGill should turn out tomorrow.

M.O.C. Mumbblings

SKI PREVIEW
In the winter a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of skiing. Here then is what the M.O.C. has to offer to young men and young women skiers too:

HOUSE
The M.O.C. house is located in Shawbridge, a Laurentian village forty miles north of Montreal. It is easily accessible, as the C.P.R. and C.N.R. lines go through the town, as well as the highway. The main house, where meals are cooked and eaten, has electricity, running water and beds and blankets for men. Women sleep either in the annex, or in approved houses in the village.

HILLS AND TRAILS
There are good hills near the house; big hill, station hill and practice hill, the first two being low hills, the last a gentle slope excellent for beginners. Besides such well known trails at Maple Leafs and Johannsen East, the M.O.C. has its own, running from St. Marguerite to Shawbridge via Mont Rolland (16 miles). There are, besides, many attractive short trails near the village.
Membership in the M.O.C. costs a dollar, pin included. Applications can be made at the Athletics office, R.V.C. and the Union Tuck Shop. Accommodation 50c a night; three square meals, 1 dollar (less for lunch on the trail). Train fare $1.95 weekend return.
Notice: Trail clearing this Sunday at Mount Baldy for ski meet.

MAAA Squash Play To Begin Tomorrow

This Saturday at the MAAA Gym, the MAAA invitation Squash tournament takes place with leading American Stars from several cities entered.
McGill is the only collegiate squad entering players, with Ferrier and Landry scheduled to carry the Red and White colours. These represent McGill by virtue of hard fought victories over such excellent players as Rattée, Baits, Tassingham, Dale and Chipman.
START SATURDAY
The play on Saturday and Sunday morning will terminate in the finals to be contested at about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and which should prove well worth catching.
The McGill team will play Williams and Dartmouth next weekend, and entertain Harvard and Toronto on December 13.
A nine man team will be chosen by elimination from a tourney in which all squash enthusiasts are welcome to participate.

London—A hangar with floor area of nearly eight acres and three doors, each 300 by 61 feet, has been built for Britain's largest civil airliner, the 125-ton Brabazon 1.

Above we have ROCKY ROBIL-LARD, one of the few remaining halves who started the season in the McGill lineup, tomorrow.

Dawson Inter Gridders Set To Play Loyola

The Dawson gridmen will try to get those Dynamos charging this Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. They will need to be because Loyola, the Intermediate Intercollegiate Champions will be host to this team that has not won a game yet this season. However, let us not be discouraged. This could be the age of miracles. After all, isn't McGill going to beat Queen's?

FULL TEAM
Reports circulating from the Loyola camp have it that all their players will be on hand for this crucial contest. Runners such as Cowan and Kiselius, a kicker by the name of McCarney and six-foot-three Paul O'Shaughnessy are some of the members of this famed squad. In this last drive to get on the win column, Coach O'Donnaghu's boys will be understaffed. The Blue and Reds driving half Johnston, will be out with a broken nose while a very able and stable guard, Everenden, may also be forced out of the game with a similar injury. Anyhow, here's hoping that those Dynamos will really put up a charge that will hurt and go on to win.

5 Man Red Team Against Runners Varsity, Queens

Rapid Robert Really Riding Rugby Roster

One needn't look at the intercollegiate scoring race to find out where Western is. With six out of the first seven top scorers in the league, there is little doubt left as to the superiority of the marauding Purple and White machine.

BOB
Rapid Robert of the McFarlane duo heads the loop with 58 points, and needs but 14 more to top Virg. Wagner of the Alouettes as leading Eastern Canada scorer; he has one game to do it in.
Following him are speedmerchants brother Don, and Jack Parry with 26 and 25 points respectively. Phibbs, Curtis and Arnot follow in order, while Henry of Toronto (Hey, how'd he get in) is the last of the Big Seven.

Water Poloists Play New York At NDG Pool

International water-polo will be revived on November 22nd when the Senior Redmen from McGill engage the New York Athletic Club in the Community Pool. Before the war a flourishing International League operated in the United States and Canada, with the MAAA and Toronto Varsity representing the Dominion.

NEW YORK TEAM
The Athletics from New York have produced an enviable record in water-polo circles as several of their stars have represented America at the Olympic Games. The club is the present holder of the Carswell trophy, emblematic of international play, and held the cup for the two years before the war. Last year they were finalists against Illinois AC of Chicago in the U.S. National Championships.

REDS TOUGH
The Redmen will be no pushovers for the visitors. Last year they walked away with the intercollegiate championship and have seven holdovers remaining in camp. They are at present leading the Provincial League, splitting with the MAA and trouncing the YMHA, last year's provincial champions.

The McGill team is coached by Jimmy Rose of the MAAA, past mentor of three Canadian Olympic teams, and of the Canuck entry in the British Empire Games in 1938. His senior Wing Wheelers won Dominion Championships in 1938 and 1940, with the juniors copping the honours in 1936 and 1938.

No Definite Inform. On New Pro Gridders

When reached for comment on the story that one of the evening newspapers carried about Tommy Manastergry, Ralph Toohey, Glen Douglas, and Dino Bandiera coming to McGill next fall, Coach Vic Obeck stated that he knew nothing, except but what he had read. Like all of us he would very much like to have the above four players under his wing next year.

PIPE DREAM?
Also don't be surprised if the genial ex-pro performer manages to make a couple of top flight American High School stars see the light, and has them sporting Red and White uniforms next fall. We believe there's a lot of food for thought here... 'nuf said.

Q.R.F.U. PICTURE TODAY

All men who played at least two games with the Q.R.F.U. football team must report at 1 o'clock at Molson Stadium to have their picture taken for the Annual. If you played on this team and have not had your picture taken with the senior team come up whether you were photographed with the intermediate intercollegiate squad or not.

INSINCERE APOLOGY

The Daily wishes to apologize to Horace Bidoo, whose name was signed to a story earlier this week. Horace was at home at the time, and did not write the account. It was written by Horace's cousin (on his father's side) Horse-face, frequently referred to as "Horse" Bidoo.

The hustling McGill Harrier squad will take to the roadways at Toronto this Saturday in a regular intercollegiate fixture against Queen's and Toronto.

MCGILL TEAM
Winners of the last prewar championship in 1939 the Redmen lost out by a large margin to the Varsity runners last year at Kingston while Queen's trailed in last place. Heading the McGill delegation will be Paul Fenton, former Princeton miler and winner of the Standard road race last Saturday. Ed Ballon, fifth in last year's meet is the only other letterman returned from last year. Newcomers George Penrose, Duncan McGeachy and Gordon Gilmore are the other members of the squad who will be doing the five mile jog.

VARSITY FAVORED
Big guns of the favored Varsity team are Doull and Preston both experienced long distance men and intercollegiate champions in the mile and three mile respectively in the recent track meet at Molson Stadium. Speers, another Toronto miler is also a likely contender. The Queen's Gaels are pinning their hopes on Al Donnelly, and Ray Oja of football fame.

With the odds against them, the Redmen have been training diligently on Mount Royal and will be relying on teamwork with all five members of the squad placing well rather than on individual triumphs in bid for the championship.

Little Redmen Play Against Xavier Team

At the Forum this Saturday, our McGill Juniors take on St. Francis Xavier in their second league tilt. Coached by Wilf Anderson, erstwhile Senior forward, the boys are rounding into shape fast, and are expected to provide stiff opposition to the other clubs.

The "little Red team" have some excellent prospects with Sheldon and Magor tending to the net-minding duties. The defence boasts Edmondson and Parsons, former Verdun Maple Leafs and Montreal West High stars respectively, with Johnson to provide relief.
On the first forward line will probably be Russell, former Strathcona star, Peppard, of late with the Truro Juveniles, and Taylor. The second line will probably have MacGuire, centered by Hutchison, and John Russell.

LETTER FORUM

The Editor:

Dear Sir,
In answer to Mr. J. A. B.'s attack upon the Thursday noon Marxist study group, I feel that many accusations advanced in his letter are incorrect to say the least.

First of all his claim that we use misleading publicity is ill-founded. It is our policy to make it clear in all our publicity that this study group is sponsored by the L.P.P. Club. Surely any thinking student should know that interpretation of current events will not be identical with those one can read in the Commercial Press, because they are based upon the two ideologies which divide the world today.

His charge that our discussions are led by a few gentlemen in the front row concerns me since I was chairman at this particular meeting. When questions are asked, they may be answered by any one in the audience, including J.A.B. if he wishes to do so. However, if the speaker feels that the answer has not been fully answered, he may.

As announced previously in The Daily, the Union House Committee has prepared a noticeboard in the main foyer showing at a glance the days activities in the union. All clubs and activities planning to use this board must have small (2" by 4") cards prepared. The union is preparing such cards for all clubs listed below; and any others not listed should leave their title in the Tuck Shop, addressed to: "U.H.C. Re Noticeboard".

Cards in preparation: Debating Union, Inter-Faculty Debates, Political Science Club, Political Economy Club, Radio Workshop, Players' Club, N.F.C.U.S., Liberal Club, P.C. Club, CCF Club, LPP Club, Model Parliament, Writers' Club, International Relations Club, Red and White Revue, Chess and Checker Club.

Prompt action on this notice is requested of all club executives concerned.

WINNIPEG, MAN
With a lower freshmen registration than expected, conditions are "over the hill" at the UNIVERSITY OF MANITOBA, and a complete return to normalcy is expected within two years. Tentative registration figures indicate a total of 6,600, slightly lower than last year.

Most of the affiliated colleges are limited to Arts and Science, hence the particularly high figure of 3,190. Architecture and Interior Decoration about 275 and 105 respectively. Agriculture continues its steady increase, now serving 316. Engineering has an all-time high of 830, as does Medicine with 332.

A new Engineering building to serve as a drafting annex is being constructed. Recently completed is Veterans' Village No. 2, consisting of 30 2-room cottages, with top priority offered to married veterans with children. Plans for a 500,000 book library have been announced.

ANTIGONISH, N.S.
At ST. FRANCIS XAVIER UNIVERSITY present registration (915) is almost triple the pre-war high of 350. Representation by faculties is: Science 337, Arts 264, Engineering 265, and Special 82.

Conditions are understandably overcrowded, three men being placed in two-men rooms in the new 200-room residence. A ten apartment residence is being constructed for veterans' families.

To be completed in the spring is a three hundred thousand dollar chapel and modern auditorium.

SASKATOON, SASK.
The big word at the University of Saskatchewan this year is construction. An Engineering annex and Hangar building are as good as completed, foundations have been poured for a School of Agriculture building, and excavations have begun for a Soil and Dairy Laboratory building. Most spectacular is the beginning of construction of a Nuclear Physics Laboratory, which will house a Betatron. This latter project will be sponsored at least in part by the National Research Council and the Canadian Atomic Energy Control Board.

Registration shows a slight drop from last year's figure of 4,490. Arts and Science show a figure of 1,184, while Engineering boasts the largest number of veterans, 569. The College of Education shows a significant jump to 439 as compared with 249 last year. Veterans form 55 per cent of the student body.

WOLFVILLE, N.S.
ACADIA UNIVERSITY shows a registration of 900, almost identical with last year's figure. The faculty of Arts and Science shows an increase from 496 to 516, while the Engineers' enrollment dropped from 191 to 154.

There is no housing problem, as 625 of the students are housed in the University residence, while over 100 live in town, the balance being scattered within an eight-mile radius of Wolfville. Twenty-five veterans with families live in former Army quarters at Camp Aldershot.

HAYES—HERON OUT

As has been the case all season long, the Redmen will enter the fray minus a few top-flight performers. Those missing the Kingston clash are halfbacks Murray Hayes and Doug Heron. The Red squad will certainly miss this duo. Hayes has been the main cog of the Red machine for the past two years, while Heron has shown well in the kicking role. The only change in the line-up will see Johnny Hall moving from the wingback slot to the halfback position.

Hi There!

right now your grades
are good...

but life holds harder tests

Harder indeed! Life was never a lenient schoolmaster. And making the grade in life demands all a man can muster in the way of knowledge, ability and forethought.

Especially forethought! The sort of forethought that prompts a man to start charting a life insurance program early in youth. The sort of forethought that enables a man to realize that whatever the experiences life holds for him — earning a living, getting married, raising a family, having earning power cut off — he is better equipped to meet them and enjoy them when he has behind him the security and protection provided by life insurance.

Talk to a Mutual Life of Canada representative and get the benefit of his special training and our long years of experience in adapting life insurance to the varied desires and responsibilities of people of all ages and all incomes.

Ask him what policy or combination of policies is best suited to your particular circumstances. Let him show you the special features of Mutual low-cost life insurance.
